I Believe the P.R.A.R.L. is the best petition I have seen so far. To eliminate the code all together is not a good idea. I like the idea of placing the code at the Extra class level and support the idea of adding to the Tech and General written tests making them a bit more difficult, would do the trick (so-to-speak). Also the idea of eliminating same session re-testing is also a good idea as it forces the participant study more during the waiting period, insuring that he or she knows the data involved. Al, N7RAA